

Craft fair

November 18th 2017 from 9 am—4 pm at Windmill Community Center

Whether you are a crafter looking for a new place to share your talents, or a shopper looking for the perfect unique gift, this is the place to be on Saturday, November 18th. Ashburn Farm is hosting it's 11th Annual Craft Fair to offer our talented residents (and their friends) the chance to sell some of their creations. This is an opportunity for people to find some exceptional holiday gifts before the busy shopping season gets into full swing.

Dozens of local crafters will be at the Windmill Community Center with their beautiful handiwork. See all sorts of crafts including jewelry, weaving, baskets, quilts, wreaths, paintings, etc. Come meet these skilled artists & see how creative some of your fellow neighbors are. The Craft Fair will be open to residents as well as non-residents.

If you are a crafter, or know someone who is, we'd love to have you sign up as a vendor for this event! Your merchandise must be something you have handmade, no multilevel marketing businesses such as Mary Kay or Lia Sophia. To participate, please send your name, address, phone number, email address and types of items you will be offering to kcornwell@afhoa.net or rness@afhoa.net or fill out the registration form and either mail it in or drop it off. We will be advertising the Craft Fair in the local newspapers and online ahead of time to bring in even more shoppers.

There is no fee to reserve a space as a vendor. Spaces will be assigned according to date of registration. Crafters will be able to begin setting up at 7 am on the day of the event. You will need to bring your own table and chairs for the day.

Shoppers and vendors do NOT need to be residents of Ashburn Farm—so bring your friends to enjoy the event!
